Day of the African Child, 16th June 2022

The Day of the African Child has been celebrated on June 16 every year since 1991, to raise awareness for the ongoing need to improve the education of children living across Africa. It is a symbol of protest and demand for adequate education for all African children and recognizes the courage thousands of students in Soweto - South Africa, who had to step up and take their rights themselves. It's a need that still very much exists today. It encourages people's spirit of abundance to share something special with a child in Africa. As we celebrated this International Day of the African Child 2022, this year's theme was "Eliminating Harmful Practices Affecting Children," we asked children at GGIS to use their creative talents to interpret which actions constitute harmful practices.

Help the African Children's Health

Help the African children's health, African children are suffering on the streets. They are not getting enough food and water causing malnutrition. We should help by giving out food and water.

HELP AFRICAN CHILDREN

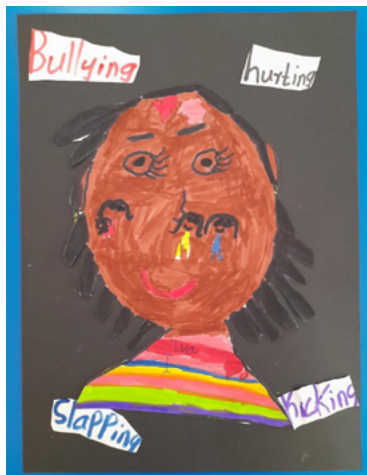

Help the poor children in Africa we need to help them . These kids need education, food, health and shelter.

Save African children

African children are children that are mostly known for poverty . No one cares to actually help . So this year on African children day we must work together to stop this . If this does not stop there might be no tomorrow . Lets all work as one big family to stop this !

Help the African Children !

Help the African children they had been fighting for there rights. Some children even died they have went through a lot for there rights. We need to help them in education. We need to help the provide. Some are still fighting not for there right for there life. Let us all help these children.
